

DISCOVER WHAT TYPE OF PROBLEM SOLVER YOU ARE

This Guest will Show your Audience How to Have a Meaningful Life and a Successful Future

Life is a series of problems. How you address and solve them determines your success in the future. Discovering your own uniqueness can help you.

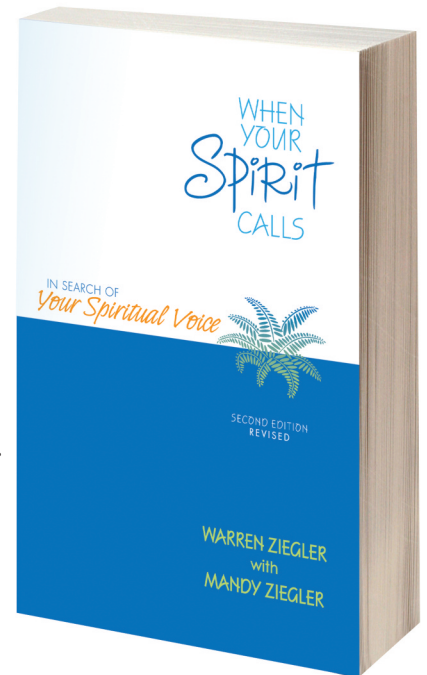

“The first time you learn how to solve problems comes from your family, your culture and your faith,” says author Mandy Ziegler. “The methods you learned growing up may not be adaptable to problems you need to solve in the future.”

Learn How to Direct your Life by Redirecting your Problems

Ziegler discusses nine universal spiritual identities, or true natures, that help you move beyond the problem-solving techniques you learned in your upbringing. She guides you in learning how to discover your own true self that can better address personal, work-related and social issues in order to invent a more desirable future.

Each spiritual archetype solves problems in its own way. Discovering your own spiritual identity will give you a new perspective on how to work through the concerns and conflicts that you face in your life, your work and your relationships.

- ◆ Do you feel that we need to sustain each other through partnerships to create meaningful solutions to our problems?
- ◆ Do you feel you are called to mend conflicts, to teach us not to wound each other in body, mind and spirit?
